Hypernova Rising

Multi-level: Grade .5 and/or Grade 1

Duration: 1 minute, 15 seconds

Year of composition: 2021

Multi-Level Parts

This piece includes parts for both grade level 0.5 and grade level 1. Parts A-1 through A-4 are grade 0.5 level parts. Parts B-1 through B-4 are grade 1 level parts. The piece can be performed with just A parts, just B parts, or any combination of the two.

There is a "snare drum A" (grade 0.5) and a "snare drum B" (grade 1). All the other percussion parts are grade 0.5.

Flexible Instrumentation

This piece is organized in 4-part flexible instrumentation plus optional (but encouraged) percussion. To fully realize the piece, you will need to have at least one player on each of the 4 parts (You need to cover part 1, part 2, part 3, part 4, although some could be A parts and some could be B parts). You will see that several instruments appear under more than 1 part. For example, clarinets appear under both part 1 and part 2. This means a clarinet part is provided for part 1 and part 2. Clarinets could play either part; if you have multiple clarinet players, they could divide between the two parts, or they could all play one of the parts. The choice is up to you! You don't need to have every instrument listed for a given part playing that part – there are multiple instruments listed per part to provide as many options as possible. Again, the key is simply that you have each of the 4 parts covered by someone.

About the Music

Hypernova is the brightest star in the galaxy, and rumor has it that it is home to a secret base. A base for who or what? We don't know. But every so often, we see the bright flares from Hypernova rising in the darkness of night and we are reminded of this mysterious star and its unknown inhabitants. (This is fictional, but makes for a good story!)
